Who are we?

ngojobs.co.uk provides an exciting new jobs board for the charity and international development community. Our goal is to provide affordable advertising and value for money to the Not-for-Profit sector and to organisations working in international development at a time when budgets are stretched. Our primary audience consists of individuals looking to continue their work within the charity field and those looking to break into it; and we work hard to make professional advice available to them. Everything we do is aimed at delivering high quality candidates, quickly, easily and cost effectively.

ngojobs.co.uk places emphasis on quality so that your time is spent choosing an ideal candidate rather than wading through hundreds of irrelevant CVs.

We strive to make a difference by providing a simple, specialised and cost effective recruitment solution to those seeking staff in the charity sector.
